

COMBAT AIRLIFTER

Pope Field, NC

440th Airlift Wing

3-4 March 2012

Combat Airlifters,

I want to thank each of you for your dedication and patriotism and via this newsletter communicate with each of you on a more personal and regular basis.

Welcome to our first electronic Combat Airlifter Newsletter! I believe it's very important to stay in contact with every Airman in the 440th AW on at least a monthly basis and maintain a consistent cross flow of information. The newsletter will also be available in hardcopy in each of your units. We will also publish an Combat Airlifter Annual hardcopy.

This letter is a work in progress, so please feel free to share your thoughts and recommend additions in areas you would like to see highlighted.

I want to start by addressing our Top Aimpoints for 2012. I developed these to help guide our daily actions and continue to address the challenges we will encounter as the 440th Airlift Wing navigates our post-BRAC role as the lead Air Force Wing for Pope Field and the model Total Force Reserve Wing in AFRC. In short, By taking care of our people we will continue to accomplish the mission better than anyone else.

As Reserve Airmen, our number one goal is to be prepared to deploy, anytime, anywhere to support missions around the globe. Every day we prove we are a capable force and are contributing to the fight with at least two of our C-130Hs and their associated crews deployed to the area of operations 365 days a year. In addition to regular deployments, we need to attack our home-station training with just as much enthusiasm. There are a number of upcoming training events leading up to our compliance inspection.

These events, including the compliance inspection, help ensure our folks are well-trained and ready to answer our nation's call. I encourage everyone to work hard to ensure full support of these training events and properly prepare for the inspection.

Our mission is indeed very important but can't be accomplished without each of you! That's why taking care of our people will always be at the top of my list.

This includes everything from professional development, physical and mental fitness, to taking care of the family. Having been a traditional Reservist most of my career, I know how challenging it can be to balance the 'Reserve triad' three-legged-stool of military career, civilian career and family. Without balance in all three we cannot sustain our force. Between supervisor support and programs like Yellow Ribbon, Employer Support for the Guard and Reserve, and our chaplain corps to name a few, we are well-equipped to take care of our Airmen and we all need to ensure it remains a top priority for our Wing.

By taking care of people and excellence in all aspects of our mission we will continue to lead the Reserve Command as a model total force Wing, maximizing efficiencies and partnerships where we can. In a time of fiscal constraints, we are leading the Reserve Command as a model total force Reserve Wing with our Active associate squadrons. Total force means Active and Reserve components working together, sharing planes and other resources. There is no other unit like ours (Reserve Wing that owns the aircraft with Active duty associated squadrons that fly, train and maintain the Reserve aircraft..all on an Army installation.) Wings like ours are the way of the future and people are looking to us to see how we get our mission accomplished.

We are busy this drill weekend! We will focus on safety during Wingman Day activities, including a mandatory Commander's Call so I can talk to you all about the importance of safety and resiliency. This is a hot topic at the highest levels and direction for the event comes directly from the Air Force Reserve Commander, Lieutenant General Stenner. For more info on that see page 6.

I highly encourage everyone to take a minute to go out to the VFW and welcome home our recently deployed Airmen and their families. On Saturday, 3 March we will welcome home deployers with a social hosted by our friends from the VFW Post 9103. While you're there, you can relax a bit and connect with reservists you may only see once a month. Looking forward to seeing you there!

I am extremely proud of you for all the amazing things you do to keep the 440th Airlift Wing the best.

Continue to focus on improving our processes and finding efficiencies within our own unit as well as with both our Air Force and Army partners on the installation. I am consistently impressed by the level of dedication, professionalism and expertise demonstrated by our Airmen as they find ways to not only succeed, but to exceed all expectations in our unique environment.

It's an honor to serve with you!

ALL THE BEST, BGen Norm Ham

FAMILY DAY: May 5, 2012— Save the date! The Saturday of our May UTA will be our annual Family Day event, complete with picnic and the all new Herk Adventure Tour for the kids. Planning committees are already working the details so stand by for further details as we get closer.

HRDC: The 440 AW Human Resources Development Council, or HRDC, is off to a solid start!

The purpose of the HRDC is to advise the 440 AW Commander on matters relating to human resource development, with the goal of helping to maintain a fully developed, skilled, diversified and fulfilled work force ready to effectively accomplish the Wing's mission. It does this by reviewing any and all human resource issues dealing with both military and civilian personnel and making recommendations for improvements.

THE HRDC NEEDS YOU! Whether or not you wish to be a member of the HRDC, you can have a positive impact on the Wing by submitting your ideas/suggestions either through your unit's HRDC rep or directly to the HRDC. Don't be shy!

If you are interested in becoming a member of the HRDC please let your supervisor know and come make a difference in the lives of your fellow Airmen!

SPOUSES INFO: Members of the 440 AW come from all over the country. One way for members and families to stay connected to their unit and Wing events is through the Internet.

The 440 AW operates both a web page and a Facebook group (440th Airlift Wing). Addresses for both are at the bottom of each page of this newsletter (hint, hint!).

Another great website for members and families is Military OneSource (www.militaryonesource.com). Military OneSource is a virtual extension of the Airmen & Family Readiness Office and provides a wealth of information for military families. OneSource also has an 800 number (800-342-9647).

For those living in the Fayetteville area, check out www.bragg.army.mil. Fort Bragg is our host station and has a wealth of activities for service members and their families.

Chaplain

WAR ON STRESS: The war on stress is a daily battle! However, equipped with God's armor, weapons of the spirit, and other essential resources, we are reminded that God is our AFI, our model and example for facing everyday life stressors and challenges. Join our 30 minute Discovery Mission and path to God's promise for comfort and hope at 1200 hours on Wednesdays in the 440th Chaplain's Office in the basement of building 308.

GOD AND FOD: Every Monday the Chapel Team joins maintenance to pick up pieces of FOD along the flight line. As we walk alongside of our Airmen searching for bits and pieces of debris which need to be removed, we are graciously reminded that we are there to help pick up the unwanted debris and FOD from people's lives. We are all here to build community, smooth out the rough edges along the flight lines of our lives, and where there is brokenness, may there be wholeness once again!

FLIGHTLINE DELIVERIES: A volunteer airman, a chaplain, and a chaplain assistant drive on to the flight line...sounds like the beginning of a good joke, doesn't it? However, this is NO joke! Every Tuesday and Thursdays the Chapel Team delivers hot chocolate, water, and an assortment of delicious treats to our maintenance crews in appreciation for all they do on a daily basis. As the team makes several stops at the planes and several buildings along the way, it is a valuable time to build an esprit de corps and offer care, counsel, and ongoing support.

SARC

Course schedule is currently listed on the SARC EIM page https://eim.amc.af.mil/org/440aw/440_WSA/440AW_CVK/default.aspx

Personnel are able to sign up for a class by clicking on the class date/time. All training classes are held at the Airman and Family Readiness Center.
