

COMBAT AIRLIFTER

Pope Field

440th Airlift Wing

November 3-4, 2012

Combat Airlifters,

My comments will be brief because we have a lot of great things happening at the 440th and I want to make sure there is room to fit it all in! This UTA we have 2 outstanding events; the Novemberfest to celebrate all the hard work we did leading up to the inspection and the Diversity and Career Day hosted by the HRDC.

Although currently on my honeymoon with my beautiful bride, Adele, I look forward to sharing some Wisconsin brats with you on Saturday and learning about all the opportunities in the Wing on Sunday! We are Pope!

All the Best - Brig. Gen. Norm Ham

Diversity and Career Day

The inaugural Diversity and Career day, sponsored by the Human Resources Development Council (HRDC) and the 440th Airmen's Council, will be held November 4, 2012, 1000-1400 in the ISO hangar. SrA Chrystal Jones, interim Airmen's Council president, would like to encourage all airmen in the 440th Airlift Wing to attend.

This is a chance for all AFSC's, career fields, sections, shops, squadrons, groups, and councils to come together during a four hour period and explore the opportunities available within the 440th Airlift Wing and the Air Force Reserves. Every squadron and council will have a table set up to provide information on their respective jobs and activities.

This is a chance to explore cross training opportunities and options or look for ways to volunteer across the Wing outside of your normal duties. This is also a good opportunity to visualize the diversity across the Wing and learn about how the Air Force Reserve impacts the community. This whole day has been planned with airmen in mind. It's a way to increase your knowledge, have fun, meet other airmen in the 440th, and find the very best Airmen to fill critical vacancies around the Wing. Also, don't miss the chance to try some of the local ethnic food also being provided by many of the local restaurants around Spring Lake and Fayetteville.

Door prizes will be awarded for attendance and visitation of each table.

HRDC

What is HRDC? "My purpose for the 440 AW HRDC program is to ensure an equal balance of the wing's focus on our mission and serving developmental needs of all wing airman. Taking care of the needs of our people fully supports their ability to ensure the success of our mission to the highest standard. The long-term consistency of our mission success is highly dependent upon our wing's ability to sustain this balance throughout the duration of each member's career in the Air Force Reserve. This means that our HRDC initiatives will place emphasis on reaching out to potential new members, taking care of and developing the career needs of current members, and preparing each member for the next level of leadership. Ultimately, these efforts are intended to develop highly motivated mission ready and loyal members who experience unrivaled pride in maintaining wing and Air Force Reserve membership." — Brig Gen Norman R. Ham, JR.

What's in it for me and the Air Force Reserve? Your role in providing input in the form of suggestions, ideas, and implementation manpower plays a critical role in the overall success of this wing's HRDC initiatives. The 440th Airlift Wing family has over 1,300 members. This represents over 1,300 potential new ideas and suggestions that may enhance our wing and our Air Force Reserve. You can play an active part by submitting your ideas and suggestions through your supervisors and commanders to the program chairs, or you may also take part and present your ideas during regularly scheduled HRDC meetings.

How do you become a member of HRDC? The Wing HRDC is looking for motivated, energetic leaders who have a passion for our mission. If you are interested in joining the Wing HRDC and are in good standing with your squadron, inform your 1st Sgt or CC and have them send an email to the Wing Command Chief with your name, squadron and contact information.

2012 Top Aimpoints:

- Preparation! Ready any time, anywhere
- Taking care of people
- Lead Reserve Command as model TFI unit

From the Vice

As we approach this year's Veterans Day, I can't help but think back to my once-in-a-lifetime TDY to Normandy in June this year and the sense of awe I felt when meeting the WWII veterans who made the trip to Normandy. One can read a hundred books and even first-hand accounts and still not get the full effect that comes from seeing and hearing the emotion as these veterans describe their experiences in person. What a moving experience it was for all of us who had that opportunity this summer. With the passing of time, the veterans of WWII, the Korean War, and even Vietnam are becoming fewer and fewer, so I encourage everyone who gets the opportunity to share some time with a Vet to make every effort to do so. Show them the respect they deserve and honor them for going before us. And don't forget to share your own experiences. With OIF/OND/OEF in their 11th year now, many if not most of us are veterans, too. I often have to remind myself of that, and it was a bit of a shock when a 90-year old Vet and even a thirty-something French man thanked me for my service. So take some time this Veterans Day and reflect on the service and sacrifice of all veterans.

On a completely different topic, one more pitch for our two big events this UTA weekend—the Novemberfest on Saturday and the HRDC and Airman's Council sponsored Career/Diversity Day on Sunday. The first is a well deserved pat on the back for all your efforts in preparing for our mega-inspection UTA last month as well as a chance to involve our local civic leaders and introduce our new Honorary Commanders. And have a bratwurst and beverage of whatever flavor you prefer. The second is a chance to see what the other units in our Wing are doing, see where vacancies are and find out about career broadening opportunities, all the while getting to see the diversity in our Wing and in our surrounding communities. And gnosh on some delicious ethnic foods from restaurants around the Fort Bragg area. Bring your curiosity and an appetite for some fantastic food!

NOVEMBERFEST

On Saturday, 3 November starting at 1500 hrs., the Wing will be sponsoring a free event, open to all Air Force personnel stationed at Pope Field. It will be held in B-712 (ISO Hangar). There will be bratwurst, potato salad, & chips, along with beer and assorted soda & water. Come join all of your friends at an event designed to thank YOU for another challenging, but highly successful year. (Did I happen to mention it's F-R-E-E!) Event will begin promptly at 1500 hrs. with a mandatory formation for the Wing Commander. POC: CMSgt Jeff Roeder

HRDC CAREER & DIVERSITY DAY

On Sunday, 4 November from 1000-1400 hrs., the Wing HRDC will be sponsoring a Career & Diversity Day. It will be held in B-712 (ISO Hangar). This is a two-fold event, with the career part designed to highlight all AFSC's within the Wing. Come out and learn how all of our jobs work together to accomplish the total mission. The Diversity part of this event is highlighted by various local restaurant's providing a sampling of their ethnic cuisines. Come out and try some foods you may never have experienced before. Did I mention it's F-R-E-E!

Protocol Corner

November's Protocol Point of Reference

Once upon a time, there was a young, eager Second Lieutenant... freshly commissioned into the United States Air Force. One day she was walking down the sidewalk when she encountered her Group Commander and his Deputy in a staff car clearly marked with an eagle. They waved at her and she smiled widely and waved back. Within a matter of seconds of the car passing her, an uncomfortable feeling came over her. She quickly entered her building and found a neighboring First Lieutenant. She frantically explained what had just happened and ended her rant with an ever-haunting question, "Was I supposed to salute?"

No one knows the precise origin of today's hand salute. From earliest times and in many distant armies throughout history, the right hand (or "weapon hand") has been raised as a greeting of friendship. Whatever the actual origin of today's hand salute, in the tradition of the military it has always been used to indicate a sign of respect. In the profession of arms, military custom and courtesy is both a right and a responsibility of every airman. Please read the guidance below for the written guidance on saluting. And if you are unsure about when to salute, please consider what that wise First Lieutenant told me. "When in doubt...whip it out!"

8.1. Hand Salutes.

8.1.1. The hand salute is the form of greeting and recognition exchanged between persons in the armed services. All Air Force personnel in uniform are required to salute when they encounter any person or situation entitled to the salute.

8.1.1.1. When the salute is rendered to another person, the junior member initiates the salute accompanied with an appropriate verbal greeting, e.g., —Good Morning, Sir/Ma'amll. Salute and extend the verbal greeting at a distance at which recognition is easy and audible. Offer your salute early enough to allow the senior time to return it and extend a verbal greeting before you pass. All salutes received when in uniform shall be returned; at other times, salutes received shall be appropriately acknowledged.

8.1.1.2. When the salute is rendered to a senior officer in a vehicle, hold the salute until it is returned by the officer or after the vehicle has passed.

8.1.1.3. When reporting to a senior officer, secure permission to enter, walk to within two paces of the officer or desk, halt, salute and report. Hold the salute until it is returned. When leaving, you should, prior to departing, take one step back, render your salute, execute an about face and leave in a military manner.

Force Development

There is a new requirement for all students using Active Duty or Reserve Tuition Assistance (TA) to complete the online Annual TA Benefits Training. If your training is not current, the Education Office will not be able to approve your TA application. The training consists of reading the current Statement of Understanding and sign using your Portal ID. You can get to the link for the training by clicking on the AFVEC-AF Virtual Ed Center link under Education/Training/Force Development links on the AF Portal home page. The Annual TA Benefits Training link is on the right side of the page and the last link under My Education Record. If you are planning on using TA for next semester, please complete the training ASAP to avoid a delay in approving your application.

Questions may be directed to FSD, Education and Training NCOIC, SMSgt Somann at 394-4024.

Radioactive Artifacts

Please notify the Bioenvironmental Engineering (BE) office of all historical USAF items and artifacts you have in your facilities (Squadron administrative offices, Break rooms, meeting rooms, etc). They may contain Generally Licensed Device (GLD) radioactive material. Potential artifacts containing RAM (list not all inclusive):

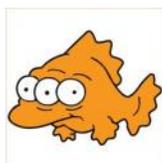

- Dials - Compasses - Watches
- Badges - Navigational Instruments

Potential artifacts with cross contamination (list not all inclusive):

- Antique uniforms - Antique patches
- Holsters - Pilot headsets/comm.

Per AFI 40-201, Managing Radioactive Materials in the US Air Force, the Installation Radiation Officer is responsible of ensuring that displays containing radioactive materials open to the public are properly marked and labeled. Procedures must be implemented for control of access to ensure exposures to worker and the public are below the limits in 10 CFR 20 and maintained As Low As Reasonably Achievable. Please notify BE if there are any USAF items or artifacts that need to be surveyed.

Please send the list of items to Mr. Joseph Dooley (joseph.dooley.4@us.af.mil) and Mr. William Haissig (william.haissig@us.af.mil). Negative replies are requested. BE can be reached at 394-7930/6838 for any questions/concerns.

Development & Training Flight

The 440th Airlift Wing is in the process of standing up a new flight. The Development and Training Flight (D&TF) is primarily designed for new members who have taken their oath of enlistment and have to wait for the start date of their basic military training. In the interim, they will report to the 440AW/D&TF to begin their initiation into the United States Air Force. Here is the official mission statement as outlined from AFRC:

MISSION: To mentally and physically prepare Air Force Reserve members for the transition from civilian to military life through academic and fitness based awareness programs ensuring success at AETC environments and beyond.

PURPOSE: The Development and Training Flight will provide structured academic and physical training programs during the period of time from enlistment through departure to formal training schools for non-prior service members and transition assistance to those members returning to military service.

In order to meet these goals the D&TF is requesting assistance from your organizations to assist in developing a well-rounded program to provide new members a smooth transition from civilian into military life.

We are looking for individuals with the following experience to assist:

- Personnel with formation and drill experience (past training instructor, Honor guard, etc).
- Physical training experience (PTLs, etc.)
- Team building exercise experience.
- Ideas for guest speakers.

If you know of anyone in your organization who may have experience in any of these areas, please contact the POC for this program, MSgt Kevin Brody, COMM: 910-394-3219 and e-mail: Kevin.brody.2@us.af.mil
